1. The request filed on August 18, 2005 for a Continued Prosecution Application (CPA) under 37 CFR 1.53(d) based on parent Application No. 10/717947 is acceptable and a CPA has been established. An action on the CPA follows.

2. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

3. Claims 1-7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. In claim 1, line 8, the relationship between the "specification marking member" inferred to and the previously positively defined "specification marking members" of line 5 is not described and accordingly renders the scope of the claimed tool holder indefinite one has to do with other, or if they are two unrelated structures given the same identification nomenclature, which would also then be indefinite. In line 9, "said specification marking member" lacks antecedent basis, as no single specification marking member is previously positively defined. Plural members are defined, and a single member is inferred, but no particular "specification marking member" is singularly and positively defined.

In claim 2, lines 2-3, "said mark-retaining portion" lacks basis for particularity, as parent claim 1 defines multiple mark-retaining portions, The phraseology should be --each said mark-retaining portion--. In line 4, "said specification marking member" again lacks antecedent positive recitation of a single member being "said". See also claim 6 for the same problems.

In claim 5, lines 2-3, "said specification marking member" again lacks antecedent positive recitation of a single member being "said".

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. Claims 1-7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over the prior art of Figures 1-3 in view of one of Wobber (1,560,009) and Arblaster (3,397,434). The prior art of Figures 1-3 discloses a tool holder comprising a base (as shown), a plurality of holding-and-mark-retaining members (each 12 and 14 in combination) individually mounted on the base, each used to hold and mark a tool and a plurality of specification marking members (at 14), each of the holding-and-mark-retaining members comprising a holding portion (12) and a mark-retaining portion (14), the holding-and-mark-retaining members being slidably movable relative to one another. Wobber and Arblaster each disclose a mark-retaining portion (3; 12; respectively) actually retaining a specification marking member (11; 14) and a retaining means (9 and 10; 22 or 23) for removably retaining the specification marking member in the mark-retaining portion. To modify the tool holder of the prior art of Figures 1-3 employing a mark-retaining portion with a removable specification marking member would have been obvious in order to provide interchangeable specification marking members for the same holding-and-mark retaining members, as taught by either one of Wobber and Arblaster.

As to claims 2 and 4, Wobber and Arblaster each disclose a first locating element (area between 9 and 10; 23) provided in an upper face of each mark-retaining portion and a second locating element (underlying edge of 3 engaging 9 or 10; 22) provided in an under face of each specification marking member.

As to claim 3, to reverse the location of the parts of Arblaster would have been an obvious reversal of parts, long held to be an obvious manner of altering an existing structure.

As to claims 5-7, Wobber and Arblaster each disclose the specification marking member (11; 14) slidably received in the mark-retaining portion (3; 12), the retaining portion in the form of a channel.

6. Applicant's arguments filed August 18, 2005 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive with respect to the remaining rejections. Applicant's admitted prior art appears to define all of the structure except interchangeable specification marking members, which are shown to have been previously known in the field of indicia by Wobber and Arblaster.
